

The Power & Purpose of Sharing My Story

Respectfully please take a moment to review my story.

As the founder of Oyezxx it is important for me to share my personal but powerful story.

The documented injustice done unto my family and I is far greater than any one particular case, individual, culture, or community.

Therefore it is extremely important to highlight the importance of our alleged due process, civil rights, and constitutional protections that are supposed to be applicable to all United States citizens.

Unfortunately, racial profiling and its DNA although known to be constitutionally invading and illegal remains apart of our American norm.

In urban, suburban, and rural America many times as individuals, communities, and cultures we are forced to constantly question if due process, civil rights, and constitutional protections apply to us.

In my personal case from the very beginning to date, I notified my lawyers and all judicial parties relevant that my arrest and subsequent conviction was founded on racial profiling, constitutionally invading behaviors, and activities.

I even went as far as filing an internal complaint February/2014 prior to trial that remains dead on point to this very day.

To date, the State of Ohio, the Lorain County Prosecutors Office, and the State of Ohio Highway Patrol individually and collectively are very familiar with the constitutionally invading truths regarding my own and so many like arrests from their area with these particular officers.

My star key witness to date remains the pursuing and arresting officer Trooper Christopher Beyer's patrol cruiser dash cam video June 14, 2011.

Collectively the State of Ohio with the assistance of my then ineffective retained counsel Jack Bradley tried keeping the video from me.

In addition June/2012 at my suppression hearing without notification or authority Jack Bradley unbeknown to me prior to the hearing even went as far as waiving the viewing of my strongest piece of evidence being the above-mentioned dash cam video.

To date the question remains; why would Jack Bradley waive the strongest piece of evidence? The video undeniably highlights the truth and all mentioned violations.

Bradley's actions for sure could not have been of any strategic value only malice.

In fact because of credibility concerns with both troopers Christopher Beyer and Michael Trader July of 2013 I submitted a Brady/Exculpatory request relevant to the video, LEADS (Law Enforcement Automated Data System), and more.

In violation of my defense and Brady rights, the State of Ohio has denied that request to date.

Going even deeper I saw the video for the first time with the trial jurors day 1 of my trial February 2014.

Day 2 of my trial with the undeniable video support I notified the judge that I wanted to recall both troopers to address 4th amendment issues.

Trial judge John Maraldi eventually denied my recall request stating, "Trooper Beyer was out of state on vacation."

Therefore after the public reviews, the edited [highlighted & original also provided to avoid legality question], version of the video via Oyezxx several questions will arise not limited to the following:

Are highway patrol officers across America patrolling the highways with predetermined or premeditated illegal sets of circumstances to perpetuate racial profiling, civil rights, and constitutional violations?

Surely the injustices documented in my personal case are undeniable.

The public must be aware of the fact that any such constitutionally invading behaviors and activities documented being committed by law enforcement and or judicial officers to this magnitude are just as criminal as any alleged nonviolent or violent charge in America including drugs, murder, kidnapping, etc.

Per the law, no conviction can legally stand if the conviction is supported by the record to be founded on perjury, due process violations, civil rights violations, or constitutional violations.

In short, without a legal beginning, there can never be a legal ending.

Fortunately for me, my story is documented in its entirety. No footage has ever been completely documented and exposed for educational purposes to this degree before by a defendant via social media.

There are literally hundreds of thousands incarcerated across America via the same or similar behaviors known and supported by their records that are not as fortunate.

The first ten minutes of the video undeniably confirms Beyer falsified the arrest reports, committed perjury under oath, committed due process, civil, and constitutional violations and more, well before my illegal detention and or arrest June of 2011.

The mentioned video was the State of Ohio's sole piece of evidence. However, all judicial officers conveniently ignored the first ten minutes of the video and every clear violation under the sun to justify using fruits of a poisonous process halfway through the video.

Although it's alleged judges and lawyers speak their own languages based on sophisticated levels and facets of law, however, the blatant disrespect exhibited by all too many alleged law enforcement and judicial officers does not graduate the realm of the obvious and common sense.

Today our legal processes has digressed to, (1) relying on procedures over merits, and (2)magnifies political pressures based on perceptions, relations, and career stabilities which ultimately undermines the intent of civil rights and constitutional protections.

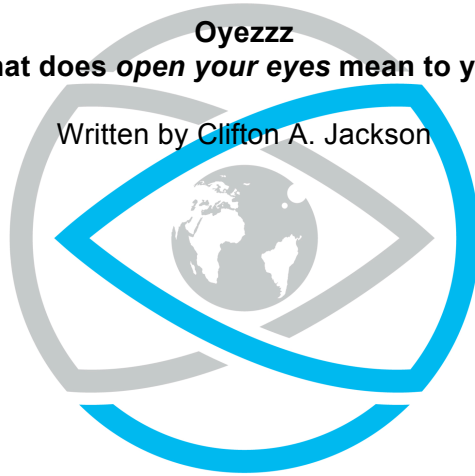

The magnitude of racial profiling, constitutionally invading policies, and tainted policing activities fueled and ignited by judicial support caters to why there are so many illegal convictions and mass incarceration abroad.

In fighting for justice in a time where overcharging and over indicting is running ramped regardless of our levels of proof and or record support, obtaining favorable evidence is no longer our primary hurdle.

However, finding a judge to uphold the law that clearly states in part, "Without a legal beginning there can never be a legal ending," has become the gauntlets and the obstacles.
